

Assignment 3: Problem 1

David Abeiku Saah

Computer Science and Information Systems Department, Ashesi University

CS213_B: Object Oriented Programming

David Ebo Adjepon-Yamoah

February 24, 2023

Comparing my code to the proposed solution, both approaches were valid. For the TestCar, I tried to test every single method and possible outcomes but had issues with it because of the null value initialisation. I realised the issue was because I made use of getters to access null values. For that aspect of the solution, getters were not used. I have learned that to make comparisons with variables involving null values, I do not have to use getters but call the variables directly.